

Student Complaint Policy

Lambton College in Mississauga, at Queen's College, is committed to providing to its students high-quality academic experiences and services, and continuously improving those experiences and services. An essential part of that commitment is receiving and responding to the concerns and complaints of the students and doing so in a timely and constructive manner.

Policy

1. This policy and associated procedures apply to student complaints and concerns regarding the provision, or lack thereof, of quality academic experiences and services. This policy is not meant to address concerns or complaints concerning grades or marks, academic decisions, student misbehavior or conduct, or harassment or bullying or other such behaviours by students or employees, all of which are addressed by other policies published by the College.
2. Queen's College (the College), which is responsible for the delivery of Lambton College programs and associated support services at its site, will receive, consider and, where warranted, act upon complaints received from its students concerning the academic experiences and services provided by the College.
3. The College will receive and consider student complaints in an open and receptive spirit and will ensure that students making a complaint, informally or formally, will experience no adverse or detrimental consequences or effects, directly or indirectly, as a result of making a complaint.
4. A student making a complaint – whether informal or at any stage of the formal process – may be accompanied by any College community member of his choice. No external (to the College) advisors, representatives or assistants may attend at any stage of the informal or formal complaint processes.

Informal Process

5. A student, or students, with a concern or wishing to make a complaint regarding an academic experience or service is required initially to express the concern or make the complaint through an informal process. The informal process is described below under Procedures: Informal Process.
6. The concern or complaint must be brought to the attention of the relevant manager – the manager responsible for the experience, service or area that is the subject of concern.

8. The concern or complaint of the student will be addressed by the relevant manager within five College working days of the student's initial notice to the College of his/her concern or complaint.
9. It is expected that the concern or complaint will be addressed and discussed in an open, honest and forthright manner by all parties, preferably in a face-to-face meeting or, alternatively, through a telephone or e-mail discussion, resulting in a mutually satisfactory resolution of the concern or complaint.

Formal Complaint

10. If the concern or complaint made through the informal process is not appropriately addressed, or not addressed in a timely fashion, or not addressed to the satisfaction of the student, the student may then initiate a formal complaint.
